EXPLORE HISTORIC ROYAL CONNECTIONS WITH ENGLISH HERITAGE

Win a half price trip for your group during coronation year to an English Heritage attraction with royal credentials

A: Charles II bought this Essex mansion in 1667

B: William conquered here in 1066

C: Elizabeth I stayed for 19 days in 1575

D: Queen Victoria's holiday hideaway

From King William I to our current King Charles III, there are plenty of English Heritage properties which have hosted royalty through the centuries for your group to visit during coronation year. One of the best-known sites is Osborne on the Isle of Wight, the beloved holiday home of Queen Victoria, Prince Albert and their nine children, where they went to relax away from the affairs of state. Highlights for group visits include the Queen's private beach, her bedroom and other informal family rooms, as well as the Swiss Cottage where the royal children learnt to keep house, and the magnificent grounds and gardens.

Other group-friendly gems with the royal touch include:

- Carisbrooke Castle also on the Isle of Wight, prison to King Charles I before his execution
- Dover Castle, Kent, the colourful home of powerful King Henry II
- Eltham Palace and Gardens, Greenwich, boyhood home of King Henry VIII
- Boscobel House and the Royal Oak, Shropshire - where King Charles II famously hid in an oak tree during the English Civil War

For your chance to win a half price visit for your group of 11 or more people, to these and a host of other English Heritage castles, abbeys and historic houses which have hosted royals through history, simply name the properties shown in these four photographs. Be sure to check out your answers by visiting www.english-heritage.org.uk!

Groups of 11 or more people receive a generous 15% discount at all English Heritage sites (10% at Stonehenge) - excluding tour leaders/drivers, who have a free place, but don't count towards group numbers. Our prize offer gives a further 50% off the already discounted rate for a visit to an English Heritage property of your choice for a group of any size over 11, excluding driver/tour leaders.

Email your answers from A to D by February 17 latest to: traveltrade@english-heritage.org.uk, putting 'Royal Competition' in the subject line. The winner will be the first correct entry drawn. Judges' decision is final and no alternative prizes such as cash in lieu can be given. The winner will be notified by March 1. The prize can be taken at any time before April 1 2024, subject to availability.
